The Balanced Budget Amendment Task Force Has the Solution!

Since 2009, Congress has borrowed more than $1 trillion each year, pushing the national debt from $10 to $19 trillion or nearly $160,000 per tax-payer, and it plans to borrow another trillion each year over the next decade - providing proof that Washington has no plans to change!

In order to prevent a severe economic meltdown, we must impose fiscal restraints on Congress via a federal balanced budget amendment (BBA).

Thomas Jefferson first called for a BBA in 1798 when he wrote, "I wish it were possible to obtain a single amendment ... taking from the Federal Government the power of borrowing."

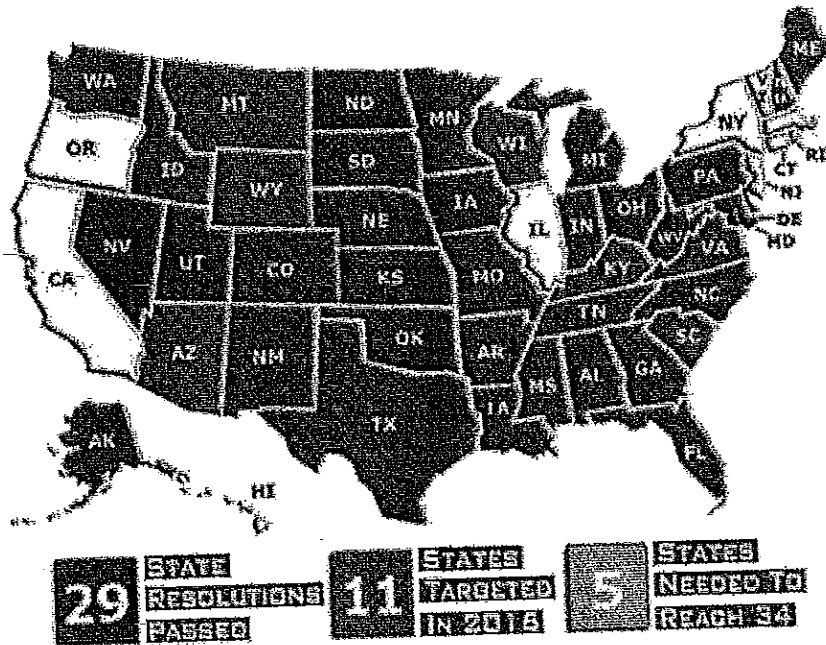

Congress has flirted with the possibility of proposing a balanced budget amendment for over forty years, but has never found the courage to do it.

Ronald Reagan tried but failed to convince Congress to propose a BBA, which is why he wrote, "Our Nation's Founders gave us the means to amend the Constitution through action of state legislatures... That is the only strategy that will work."

Only the States have the constitutional power to rid Congress of its deficit spending addiction via a BBA. In order to do so, 34 States must call a convention to propose an amendment and 38 States must ratify it.

29 states have already called for a convention to propose a balanced budget amendment! With your help we can reach 34 by the end of 2016!

For more information on the Balanced Budget Amendment Task Force, visit us at www.BBA4USA.org, Phone: (855) 502-2248, and E-mail: Info@BBA4USA.org.

As a board member of the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC), I see the value of our spring meeting. As most states' sessions are well underway, and many states have already wrapped up theirs, this is the perfect opportunity for legislators to exchange ideas and compare and contrast what has and has not worked in 2016.

I encourage you to attend! This is a one day meeting, Friday May 6th, in Pittsburgh. This meeting will make you a better legislator for having attended. You can register using the information contained in the email. Legislators are eligible for up to $350 in travel reimbursement and two nights on our hotel block.

American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC) member and Midwestern Chair of the ALEC Women's Caucus Representative Christina Hagan is the youngest female ever elected to the Ohio State House of Representatives. She is also an avid supporter of free markets and limited government, was featured in Forbes' 30 Under 30 and is enjoying her first year of motherhood. In honor of Women's History Month, she sat down with ALEC staffer Laurel Buckley to discuss what makes for effective policy in the states.

We discussed before how all issues are women's issues. I know you have a wide range of policy you must research and vote on. During the 2016 legislative session, what is one of your primary legislative goals?

Efficiency and effectiveness. I'm currently working on reviewing the Ohio legislative code to ensure that there are not repetitive, dated or unnecessary statutes in place. I'm starting with education. Often times overregulation is placed on teaching facilities without thought of basic, conservative principles based in limited government. This particular project focuses on how we can stop obstructive policies while still ensuring we are setting quality standards.

Last year, you won Forbes' 30 under 30. What made you stand out on that list?

If you review the list, you will see that I am likely the lone conservative female. Many young women believe in core Republican values and have a commitment to the principles of Liberty but do not always feel comfortable speaking up. I understand that free markets are central to a stable economy and I am glad to work for and share this good news – this may be what sets me apart.

I know that some of the nation is trending otherwise due to current frustrations with a broken system. More and more young people are following liberal ideals, which you can see in the most recent primary discussions but I believe this is an opportunity to spread our vision and win hearts and minds. Our nation seems to be trending toward liberal leaders but not because they have the sound policy answers, it's because they have the attractive talking points.

Why do you think that is?

Because conservative leaders haven't effectively communicated their message. Communicating how important economic stability is to hardworking taxpayers and the futures of every American is important to the people we are serving. That's why I'm working to combat that failed communication style from my office. My staff Victoria and I work around the clock using social media and traditional forms of outreach to ensure constituents are in the know on what we stand for, how we are voting and what policy we are moving, giving them an understanding of our vision and ensuring transparency, access and always open communication.

You mention working with a younger generation. As a new mom, how are you a role model for your daughter and the next generation of women?

As a new mom, I understand the need to protect the integrity of our state and national economy for future generations. My work is done to ensure that there is a balanced budget, that lawmakers in Ohio are cutting taxes for working families and that we are doing everything that we can to see the economy flourish.

I am a strong believer that women can do anything and many things simultaneously. I feel called to illustrate some of our strengths outside of the status quo so that the culture can begin to trend more towards supporting working families. I do not believe government needs to mandate anything in order for a woman to be successful long term. I am of the attitude that we can and we will succeed but we have to set the example in a mindful and respected fashion, it always takes a little time to change hearts and minds. I bring my daughter to work with me every day and she is a constant reminder of what I am working toward. It's not my future I'm planning for – it's hers. She is my inspiration to do more and be more, I am sure she is empowering others to do the same.

What benefits do you receive from your participation in the American Legislative Exchange Council?

ALEC is empowering. As a young, female legislator people often have assumptions about my political beliefs. At ALEC I align with people who have very similar focus and principles as I do without being made to feel guilty or ashamed for those beliefs.

At ALEC I can focus on policy. I can access logical research and read through publications based in factual information. Some organizations may pressure legislators to look at policy based on emotion. [Other people] get caught up thinking that as a young woman, I should have a certain mindset.

At ALEC I find reliable resources, connected to my principles and beliefs. ALEC understands the need for job growth and economic stability. While others may discuss how policy affects businesses ALEC is working directly with business experts, ALEC policy is directly connected to actual economic possibilities and what is needed for economies to flourish.

What legacy do you want to be known for after you leave office?

I don't want to be remembered by party lines, but rather as someone who cared for and fought for her community.

If someone calls into my office, we don't ask what party they are with; instead we ask how we can serve that person. I want my constituents to know that they are a part of government and can come to me....

I want to be known as someone who encourages other young individuals to join in the political process. As the youngest female to serve in the Ohio legislature it is important to me that other young individuals feel empowered to work in public service if they find their passion there.

Every voice matters. It takes all walks of life to be the best representation and reflection of the people we serve.

Nowadays, people are viewing a college diploma as the sole ticket to success – and they are going into massive debt to get one, even if it won't be useful in their careers. It's just as important for people to learn trades. Success is about passion, not a diploma. We need to continually support a culture that respects and honors all types of education and work not just those completed in the confines of a traditional classroom. I want to make sure opportunities, not burdens, exist for all to start a life with purpose and have an opportunity as an ordinary person to do great things.

I came from a family of hardworking and intelligent people. Uniquely though I am the first in my family to have a college degree, also the first to have massive debt upon entering my adult life. My parents are the owners of a small business, Hagan Heating and Plumbing, successful now for 60 years. I have learned nearly everything I know from them and neither had my business degree. I waited tables until I was 36 weeks pregnant to work to pay off my student debt. I'm an average citizen and I stepped into office because I saw the need and the ability as a normal person to do something great for our community. I hope others will too and I encourage them to get involved.

Sincerely,

Christina M. Hagan
State Representative | Ohio House District 50

New ALEC CARE engagement tool

1 message

Thu, May 12, 2016 at 4:20 PM

Ashley Varner <avamer@alec.org>
To: "hagan4ohio@gmail.com" <hagan4ohio@gmail.com>

Dear Representative Hagan – we missed you in Pittsburgh, but I hope all is well with you and your little one.

Ohio is a target state for the new constituent relationship management tool, ALEC CARE (Constituent Analytics and Research Exchange). We'd love to come to Ohio and give a training and account set up to your caucus, if they would be interested. Do you think we could make a trip in the next few weeks, if there is an opportunity to gather your colleagues together?

Feel free to share the below email and this PDF about ALEC CARE with your colleagues.

Happy to answer any questions.

Best – Ashley Varner

ALEC Constituent Analytics and Research Exchange

~~The Left has been community organizing for decades.~~

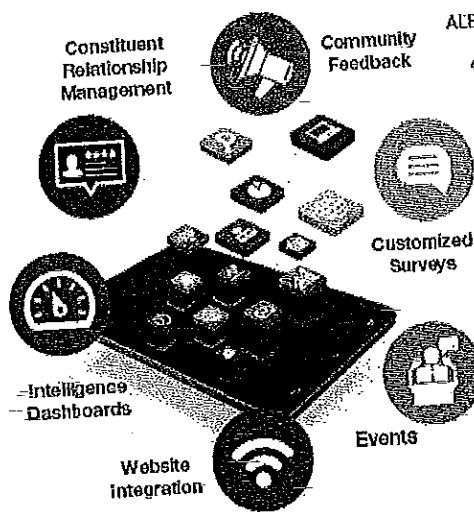

It's time we caught up, and the new ALEC Constituent Analytics and Research Exchange (ALEC CARE) is the great equalizer.

ALEC CARE is a constituent relationship management system that helps you engage with your constituents in a way that is more efficient and effective. ALEC CARE helps members maintain real relationships with real people.

ALEC

ALEC Constituent Analytics and Research Exchange (CARE)

*ALEC-CARE helps members maintain real relationships with real people.
It is a cooperative platform for legislators to gain insight into their communities and help them better identify, understand and communicate with constituents.*

ALEC-CARE is a game-changing tool for legislators. It is a win-win for everyone involved. Any legislator can partner with a data utility to better understand what issues matter most to their supporters, but ALEC-CARE provides an exclusive, unified system for all members to gather and store information for targeted, insightful and immediate reporting on constituent attitudes and policy positions.

The ALEC-CARE database is comprehensive and dynamic and offers unique information about a legislator's constituents. Insights are continually refined with new data and are organically driven by legislators as they interact and engage with their constituents.

In 2016, ALEC will identify beta states across the country to test and fine-tune the offering. And, in 2017, ALEC-CARE will be offered to all ALEC member legislatures as a member benefit.

- Constituent Relationship Management
- Community Feedback
- Customized Surveys
- Events
- Website Integration
- Intelligence Dashboards

ALEC CARE is an impressive tool. It is what free market legislators have needed for a long time. I'm glad ALEC has stepped up to offer this resource.
—Representative Phil King, TX

ALEC-CARE would be a nice tool for the North Carolina Caucus and would dramatically expand collaboration in my delegation.
—Representative Jason Selma, NC

ALEC CARE will be available to all ALEC members in 2017, but is available to target states as part of a beta program--and you are invited!

You'll be one of the first lawmakers in the country to take part in an exclusive, unified system for legislators to gather and store information about their districts for targeted, insightful and immediate reporting of constituent attitudes and policy positions.

ALEC staff would like to give a demonstration to your caucus and set up your accounts.

Please contact Ashley Varner, Senior Director of Strategic Communications, to schedule a demonstration in your state.

Date: Friday, May 20

Time: 2:00-2:30 PM ET

Speaker: Inez Feltscher, report author and director of the ALEC Task Force on Education and Workforce Development

Feltscher will speak about a new report being released next week which explores benefits and challenges that accompany the groundbreaking ESA programs which allow parents to fully control state dollars allocated to their child's education. The call will also highlight three tools – peer reviews, branding and consumer reports – that parents will use in the future of individually-customized educational options.

Spring Task Force Summit Recap

The ALEC Spring Task Force Summit was a great success, especially where policy innovation is concerned. Every task force featured policy experts, highly engaged participants and full rooms. Good policy was developed and the groundwork was laid for a 2016 full of new ideas.

Task Force on Education and Workforce Development

The task force updated model policy on tax credit scholarships, which allows for a tax credit for contributions to organizations that provide educational scholarships to eligible students so they can attend qualifying public or private schools of their parents' choice. More choice for all parents and kids!

The Higher Education Subcommittee heard from four panelists regarding work on academic freedom in the states. State representatives shared their experiences with the Campus Freedom Bill and the challenges they faced, and plans for how approach the issue of academic freedom in the future. Civil society groups also presented the ideas of their organizations regarding academic freedom and discussed what sort of model policy they thought best addressed the issue.

As the summer and Annual Meeting approach, the task force will also hear from experts on the new federal education law, ESSA, about the new freedom and responsibilities states will exercise after No Child Left Behind and their waivers expire, in a new series of webinars. The first installment of the series of three will begin on May 19 at 3:00 PM, and will feature ESSA experts D'arcy Phillips of Penn Hill Group and Claire Voorhees from Foundation for Excellence in Education.

Task Force on Communications and Technology

Highlights of the meeting include learning about online credentials, the role of regional telecommunications companies in broadband deployment, how satellite and mobile companies are bringing broadband to underserved communities, and the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) proposed set top box rule.

FCC Commissioner Ajit Pai's chief of staff, provided members of the task force with the Commissioner's perspective on the proposed set top box rule. The task force heard how companies like AT&T and Comcast are innovating in the field, and how those innovations will eventually lead to the elimination of the set top box. Mr. Berry also outlined some of the Commissioner's concerns with respect to consumer privacy.

The task force heard about the role of mid-sized telecommunications companies in providing services, including broadband, to rural areas and other regions not as well served by larger telecommunications companies.

Attendees were introduced to the concept of online credentials. Speakers described their experiences and efforts to provide an understanding for state and local governments when they seek to craft measures that would allow their employees to economize government through different measures geared at proving a particular person signed off on an electronic document

Task Force on Health and Human Services

HHS task force attendees heard from scholars on how to best-reframe the debate on healthcare reform, and began the discussion on improving access and quality of care through payment incentives for healthcare providers.

The task force will also host the much-anticipated conference call with Congresswoman Susan Brooks (IN-5) where she will speak about federal work in response to the opioid addiction and overdose epidemic. The call will take place Thursday, May 12, at 1:00 PM-ET.

Article V in the Spotlight in Pittsburgh

The Task Force on Federalism will not meet at the Spring Task Force Summit in Pittsburgh. However, Article V will be highlighted both Friday, May 6 and Saturday, May 7. Scheduled events appear below.

Friday, May 6

11:00 AM-12:00 PM Saving the American Dream with a Balanced Budget Amendment to the U.S. Constitution

If you believe that 'Peace through Strength' for America is impossible without a strong dollar and financially robust federal government, this panel discussion is for you. Moderated by Representative Gary Banz (OK), this discussion focuses on the national security implications of the nation's $19 trillion debt and explains how the states can prevent a catastrophic economic downturn by proposing and ratifying a balanced budget amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Presenters include: Admiral William Owens, USN (Ret.); David Walker (Former U.S. Comptroller General); Bill Fruth (Co-Founder Balanced Budget Amendment Task Force) and David Guldenschuh (Policy Advisor, Heartland Institute).

6:00 PM-9:30 PM Reception/Dinner RSVP to [kjones@alec.org]

This working dinner will feature noted speakers discussing why the states must act to prevent "the most predictable economic crisis in history." [Erskine Bowles] Policy experts and former government officials will underscore the importance of acting on the national debt now and legislative leaders on BBA will explain how they spearheaded balanced budget initiatives in their state chambers.

Saturday, May 7

7:30 AM-12:00 PM Breakfast/Interactive Workshops on an Article V Convention for Proposing Amendments RSVP to [kjones@alec.org]

This morning will be devoted to dispelling many of the myths surrounding the concept of the Article V convention for proposing amendments. The morning will include panel discussions as well as interactive workshops from policy experts and legislative leaders on the issue. Learn how to do your part to make sure that the American Dream is a reality for generations to come.

Federalism Wins!

ALEC CEO Update

CEO Update

Invest in the States

We live in interesting times, don't we?

With uncertainty at the federal level and in the markets in general, it's time to invest in the states. We've long known the states are where real, substantive change takes place, and now many others are catching on.

That's why some on the Left are trying to intimidate and bully corporations from sponsoring free market policy in the states, to prevent legislators from promoting limited government. Thankfully, private sector leaders are getting tired of the bully campaigns and are pushing back. If you haven't read these articles, take a look at the following:

GE CEO Jeffrey Immelt defends corporations against accusations of 'destroying the moral fabric of America'

Verizon CEO Lowell McAdam on Bernie Sanders' 'outrageous' views on big corporations

It is time for more Americans—business leaders, legislators and individuals alike—to make their voices heard and stand up for the ideas and organizations they believe in. As so many retrench and look to the states, ALEC is open to your ideas. We have been a trusted resource to legislators and stakeholders for 43 years and will be even more relevant in the coming years.

I hope you will join us next week during the ALEC Spring Task Force Summit in Pittsburgh on May 6.

If you'd like to know what the Task Forces will discuss during the meeting, you can view the agendas, draft model policies and speakers here. I encourage you to explore the policy work in all ALEC task forces and let ALEC help you become a better advocate for the issues you care about.

There are more than 350 legislator members of ALEC who are not currently on a Task Force. Membership on a Task Force is consistently rated as one of the top member benefits, and is proven to increase the value of ALEC to legislators. ALEC staff is cross-referencing committee assignments in the legislature and will place unassigned legislators on Task Forces before Annual Meeting. Members not currently assigned to a Task Force will be notified the week following the Spring Task Force Summit of their assignment, and we look forward to even more legislative engagement at future meetings.

ALEC invests in the states, because the states are working for you. We want to invest in you as well, and help you become more effective where YOU have chosen to invest your time and energy.

I'll see you in Pittsburgh!

Sincerely,

Lisa B. Nelson

COMMUNICATIONS AND TECHNOLOGY

The Task Force on Communications and Technology will feature a panel discussion entitled, "Beyond the Set Top Box: How Innovation is Eliminating the Need for Set Top Boxes" with Mr. Matthew Berry, FCC Commissioner Ajit Pai's Chief of Staff. The panel follows a lunch presentation by ITTA, the voice of mid-sized communications companies, about how states can help regional telecommunications companies fulfill their responsibilities to offer services to rural and underprivileged citizens. Other panels will focus on the role of satellite and mobile in broadband deployment.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

The Task Force on Health and Human Services will host its inaugural meeting of the Payment Reimbursement Reform in Healthcare Subcommittee, followed by a presentation on findings by the Mercatus Center at George Mason University during the lunch hour. The HHS meeting will consist of issue areas covering Food Stamp reform in Kansas and proposed initiatives in response to the opioid addiction epidemic, among others.

EDUCATION AND WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

The Task Force on Education and Workforce Development will hear and contribute to a panel discussion on the features of state charter law and policy which attract in-demand and successful charter networks. In addition, the task force will continue its work on the education savings account (ESA) revolution, with presentations on how the private sector will meet future ESA parents' and students' needs and the popularity of ESAs among the voting public. ALEC will release an ESA State Factor ahead of STFS. Finally, as stories continue to highlight the sorry state of free speech on American campuses, the ALEC Higher Education Subcommittee will begin work on policy solutions that protect academic freedom on campus.

Dear Task Force Members,

I wanted to be sure you saw the below email with draft model policies and agenda items for the Spring Task Force Summit in Pittsburgh on May 6.

I hope to see you there,

Bartlett D. Cleland
Vice President
Center for Innovation and Technology

As the Spring Task Force Summit nears, please make sure to take a look at your task force documents. With the new ALEC website, the way to access task force documents has changed to make a more user-friendly experience.

Don't worry - the PDFed 35-day mailing documents still exist on each task force page, but the information is also available in an easily searchable, mobile optimized format. Essentially, your task force page is the old 35-day mailing.

Use the links below to review the draft policies, speakers and other agenda items for the upcoming task force meeting.

- Civil Justice
- Commerce, Insurance and Economic Development
- Communications and Technology
- Criminal Justice Reform
- Education and Workforce Development
- Energy, Environment and Agriculture
- Federalism and International Relations
- Health and Human Services
- Tax and Fiscal Policy

REMINDER FOR PRIVATE SECTOR MEMBERS: In the effort to align dues for all nine Task Forces, the ALEC Board of Directors has approved a dues adjustment for Task Force memberships. As of January 1, 2016, Task Force dues for all new ALEC members will be $5,000 per year. For current members, the new dues rate will not take effect until January 1, 2017. General membership dues, including the Washington Circle, the Madison Circle and the Jefferson Circle will remain at the current levels.

As membership continues to grow and ALEC programs expand in scope and value, the new dues alignment creates consistency among ALEC Task Forces and reflects the ever-increasing value of ALEC membership. The ALEC Board of Directors understands our members have limited budgets, and that ALEC is one of many organizations that you actively support. If you have any questions, please contact Marie Vulaj at 571-482-5025 or mvulaj@alec.org. Thank you for your continued support of ALEC.

ALEC Education and Value

Congratulations to ALEC members in Pennsylvania for prevailing over the governor's veto threats to enact a no-new-taxes spending package. After nine months of negotiations, the Pennsylvania General Assembly delivered a budget that respects hardworking taxpayers and holds government more accountable.

I look forward to congratulating our Pennsylvania delegation personally during the ALEC Spring Task Force Summit in Pittsburgh on May 6. Join your friends and colleagues in Pittsburgh to raise the flag of limited government and fiscal responsibility. If you haven't yet registered, Early Bird Registration rates end and prices increase April 11.

In preparation for the Spring Task Force Summit, you will receive draft documents, policy proposals and task force agendas later this week. I encourage you to explore the policy work in all ALEC task forces and learn about our work in all sectors. No matter your background, ALEC is the leader in developing innovative policies to address challenges facing our communities — and I want you to be part of our growing network.

Additionally, I want to bring to your attention some exciting upcoming events:

- In June, ALEC will lead a group of lawmakers at the Electronic Entertainment Expo (E3) in Los Angeles. E3 is the world's premier electronic trade show showcasing groundbreaking new technologies and never-before-seen products. Attending lawmakers will benefit by learning from the leading-edge companies in the interactive entertainment industry.
- During our Annual Meeting in Indianapolis in July, the Task Force on Education and Workforce Development has an excellent lineup of panels and workshops with a number of exciting speakers and leaders in education.
- In September, ALEC will host the second Life Sciences Academy for state lawmakers in Boston. This Life Sciences Academy will focus on pharmaceutical innovation and include tours of research and development facilities, along with executive presentations about the time, challenge and investment it takes to bring a drug to market.

This morning on Houston's 740 AM KTRH NewsRadio, ALEC Article V Handbook author and Professor Rob Natelson gave a great explanation of a convention to propose amendments to the U.S. Constitution, commonly referred to as Article V. Prof. Natelson will be back on the air this afternoon on 950 AM KPRC. Please tune in to Matt Patrick today at 4:17 PM CT/5:17 PM ET to hear Natelson discuss Article V and a convention to propose amendments. ALEC maintains model policy on three, complementary approaches to Article V that are under active consideration at the state and federal levels. Each approach has merit and is a constitutionally appropriate way to address government overreach.

Finally, As membership grows and ALEC programs expand in scope and value, the ALEC Board of Directors has approved a dues adjustment for Task Force memberships. As of January 1, 2016, Task Force dues for all new ALEC members will be $5,000 per year. For current members, the new dues rate will not take effect until January 1, 2017. General membership dues, including the Washington Circle, the Madison Circle and the Jefferson Circle will remain at the current levels. This new dues alignment creates consistency among ALEC Task Forces and reflects the ever-increasing value of ALEC membership.

It's a great time to be at ALEC, and I'm glad you're here.

Sincerely,

Lisa B. Nelson
Chief Executive Officer

American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC) member and Midwestern Chair of the ALEC Women's Caucus Representative Christina Hagan is the youngest female ever elected to the Ohio State House of Representatives. She is also an avid supporter of free markets and limited government, was featured in Forbes' 30 Under 30 and is enjoying her first year of motherhood. In honor of Women's History Month, she sat down with ALEC staffer Laurel Buckley to discuss what makes for effective policy in the states.

We discussed before how all issues are women's issues. I know you have a wide range of policy you must research and vote on. During the 2016 legislative session, what is one of your primary legislative goals?

Efficiency and effectiveness. I'm currently working on reviewing the Ohio legislative code to ensure that there are not repetitive, dated or unnecessary statutes in place. I'm starting with education. Often times overregulation is placed on teaching facilities without thought of basic, conservative principles based in limited government. This particular project focuses on how we can stop obstructive policies while still ensuring we are setting quality standards.

Last year, you won Forbes' 30 under 30. What made you stand out on that list?

If you review the list, you will see that I am likely the lone conservative female. Many young women believe in core Republican values and have a commitment to the principles of Liberty but do not always feel comfortable speaking up. I understand that free markets are central to a stable economy and I am glad to work for and share this good news – this may be what sets me apart.

I know that some of the nation is trending otherwise due to current frustrations with a broken system. More and more young people are following liberal ideals, which you can see in the most recent primary discussions but I believe this is an opportunity to spread our vision and win hearts and minds. Our nation seems to be trending toward liberal leaders but not because they have the sound policy answers, it's because they have the attractive talking points.

Why do you think that is?

Because conservative leaders haven't effectively communicated their message. Communicating how important economic stability is to hardworking taxpayers and the futures of every American is important to the people we are serving. That's why I'm working to combat that failed communication style from my office. My staff Victoria and I work around the clock using social media and traditional forms of outreach to ensure constituents are in the know on what we stand for, how we are voting and what policy we are moving, giving them an understanding of our vision and ensuring transparency, access and always open communication.

You mention working with a younger generation. As a new mom, how are you a role model for your daughter and the next generation of women?

As a new mom, I understand the need to protect the integrity of our state and national economy for future generations. My work is done to ensure that there is a balanced budget, that lawmakers in Ohio are cutting taxes for working families and that we are doing everything that we can to see the economy flourish.

I am a strong believer that women can do anything and many things simultaneously. I feel called to illustrate some of our strengths outside of the status quo so that the culture can begin to trend more towards supporting working families. I do not believe government needs to mandate anything in order for a woman to be successful long term. I am of the attitude that we can and we will succeed but we have to set the example in a mindful and respected fashion, it always takes a little time to change hearts and minds. I bring my daughter to work with me every day and she is a constant reminder of what I am working toward. It's not my future I'm planning for - it's hers. She is my inspiration to do more and be more, I am sure she is empowering others to do the same.

What benefits do you receive from your participation in the American Legislative Exchange Council?

ALEC is empowering. As a young, female legislator people often have assumptions about my political beliefs. At ALEC I align with people who have very similar focus and principles as I do without being made to feel guilty or ashamed for those beliefs.

At ALEC I can focus on policy. I can access logical research and read through publications based in factual information. Some organizations may pressure legislators to look at policy based on emotion. [Other people] get caught up thinking that as a young woman, I should have a certain mindset.

At ALEC I find reliable resources, connected to my principles and beliefs. ALEC understands the need for job growth and economic stability. While others may discuss how policy affects businesses ALEC is working directly with business experts, ALEC policy is directly connected to actual economic possibilities and what is needed for economies to flourish.

What legacy do you want to be known for after you leave office?

I don't want to be remembered by party lines, but rather as someone who cared for and fought for her community.

If someone calls into my office, we don't ask what party they are with; instead we ask how we can serve that person. I want my constituents to know that they are a part of government and can come to me.

I want to be known as someone who encourages other young individuals to join in the political process. As the youngest female to serve in the Ohio legislature it is important to me that other young individuals feel empowered to work in public service if they find their passion there.

Every voice matters. It takes all walks of life to be the best representation and reflection of the people we serve.

Nowadays, people are viewing a college diploma as the sole ticket to success – and they are going into massive debt to get one, even if it won't be useful in their careers. It's just as important for people to learn trades. Success is about passion, not a diploma. We need to continually support a culture that respects and honors all types of education and work not just those completed in the confines of a traditional classroom. I want to make sure opportunities, not burdens, exist for all to start a life with purpose and have an opportunity as an ordinary person to do great things.

I came from a family of hardworking and intelligent people. Uniquely though I am the first in my family to have a college degree, also the first to have massive debt upon entering my adult life. My parents are the owners of a small business, Hagan Heating and Plumbing, successful now for 60 years. I have learned nearly everything I know from them and neither had my business degree. I waited tables until I was 36 weeks pregnant to work to pay off my student debt. I'm an average citizen and I stepped into office because I saw the need and the ability as a normal person to do something great for our community. I hope others will too and I encourage them to get involved.

Sincerely,

Christina M. Hagan
State Representative | Ohio House District 50

Hello Representative Hagan,

I hope this email finds you well. It was great seeing you last month. As March kicks off women's history month, we here at ALEC are hoping to highlight the chairs of our ALEC Women's Caucus. Would you have time this week or next to chat for 5-10 minutes about your path in the legislature? I'd love to showcase you for our website.

I look forward to hearing from you. Best,

Laurel Buckley

Laurel,

It was great seeing you and also getting to introduce you to Josaphine as well. We appreciate all that you do!
Also, again congratulations once more to your new fiancé and best wishes to you both for your future. I would be more than glad to spend some time with you on the phone this week. How doesn't Friday at 11:15 a.m. sound?

Good morning Representative,

At the risk of looking too "Interview-y" I put together a few questions for our call. We don't have to move forward strictly with them, but perhaps it could help lead our discussion. I wanted to send these to you and see if they provided any thoughts for the call. The goal is to profile what makes a legislator a leader.

Talk to you soon:

1. Please describe one of your primary legislative or policy goals or projects.
2. Last year, you won Forbes' 30 under 30. What made you stand out on that list?
  - a. What does that accomplishment mean for you?
3. As a new mom, how are you standing as a role model for your daughter and/or the next generation of women?
4. Why did you join the American Legislative Exchange Council?
5. What benefits do you receive from your participation in the American Legislative Exchange Council?
6. What is your favorite memory about an American Legislative Exchange Council event?
7. What role do you see the American Legislative Exchange Council playing in the next 5-10 years?
8. What legacy do you want to be known for after you leave office?

Center to Restore the Balance of Government

Conference Call: Protecting Intellectual Property Rights -- Essential to America's Innovation Economy

Date: Tuesday, March 8

Time: 12:00 PM - 12:30 PM ET

Speaker: Senator Steve Daines (MT)

RSVP: To receive call information, please email rsvp@alec.org

About: Senator Steve Daines of Montana serves on the Senate Committees on Appropriations; Energy and Natural Resources; Commerce; and Indian Affairs.

He will discuss intellectual property (IP) rights and the role they play in the innovation economy. Call attendees will have the opportunity to ask questions and offer their thoughts.

Before his election to Congress as a U.S. Representative in 2012, Senator Steve Daines spent 13 years in a management role for Procter and Gamble. In 2000, he took on the role of VP at RightNow Technologies, a Bozeman-based cloud computing start-up company. The company grew rapidly and became a publicly traded software company with 17 offices around the world, and products in more than 30 languages. The company was acquired by Oracle in 2012 and remains one of Montana's largest commercial employers.

Dear Members,

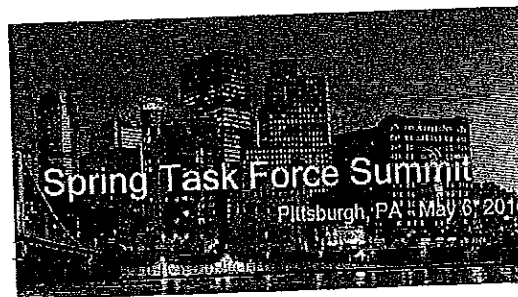

I trust you are well.

We are roughly 65 days away from the Spring Task Force Summit in Pittsburgh. It is nearly time to submit proposed model policies, resolutions and statements of principles for consideration during this meeting. For your reference, and pursuant to Task Force Operating Procedures, all proposed model policy should be submitted 45 days prior to the meeting.

For the Spring meeting, this means proposed model policy should be submitted by March 22, 2016.

If you have model policies ready for submission, I encourage you to submit them as soon as possible.

I look forward to seeing each of you in Pittsburgh! The Early Bird Deadline Is April 11. Register today to get your best price.

Regards,

Jonathon Paul Hauenschild, J.D., Legislative Analyst
